

Photos: University students showcase their research at Capitol

Published: Tuesday, Jan. 26 2016 3:55 p.m. MST

Updated: Tuesday, Jan. 26 2016 3:59 p.m. MST

Print

Font [\[+\]](#) [\[-\]](#)

Leave a comment »

Share

267

Share

259

Tweet

3

Pin it

0

g+

0

in fb tw g+ email print

View 10 photos »

Lt. Gov. Spencer Cox talks with students Lucas Smith, Zak Dymock and Carson Sparks as University of Utah and Utah State University students show their research for Utah lawmakers in rotunda of the state Capitol in Salt Lake City, Tuesday, Jan. 26, 2016.

Jeffrey D. Allred, Deseret News

Summary

For several hours Tuesday, dozens of undergraduate students from the University of Utah and Utah State University showcased their research to Utah lawmakers at the state Capitol.

Lt. Gov. Spencer Cox talks with students Lucas Smith, Zak Dymock and Carson Sparks as University of Utah and Utah State University students show their research for Utah lawmakers in rotunda of the state Capitol in Salt Lake City on Tuesday, Jan. 26, 2016.

Research topics range from "sexual assault and the doctrine of chances in the courtroom," to the 'demographic consequences of climate change in the Uinta Ground Squirrel,' to "community planners' perceptions on balancing well-being and development in Wasatch Mountain communities," to education and extracurricular activities.